INCENDIARY FIRES.

A Number Has Occurred in New York Lately.

MANY LIVES IMPERILED.

Fifty Families Placed In Jeopardy and Three Hundred People Escaped the Destruction Planned By the Fire Bugs. Startling Facts Revealed to the New York Police.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Following close upon the tenement house horror, in which four persons perished, and the East Twenty-ninth street tenement fire, which cost two more lives, with a strong suspicion that incendiarism was the cause of each fire, came reports to the police of two clear cases of incendiary a third case almost as clear, and a fourth in which there is good reason to believe that such scoundrelly work was planned.

In all the lives of fifty-eight families, comprising probably 300 persons, were placed in jeopardy by these attempts, each fire having been started in a tenement house. In only one case were there any arrests, but in this the proof seems to be positive, as a policeman by peculiarly good luck saw the would-be firebugs in the very act. This latter case occurred in the five story tenement numbered 210 Catharine street. The top floor of this building is occupied by Michael Schrender, John Strogenis and Andrew Maschrides, Polish Jew tailors, who slept and worked there. The policeman in question happened to see the windows of these apartments bloom with light. Then there was a sudden burst of flame which illuminated the interior of the room, and the policeman saw one of the tailors with a can in his hand, the contents of which he was emptying around the room, while the two Poles stood in the background. The officer started for the apartments, and when he reached there quickly smothered the fire with a mattress. The three tailors looked on without showing excitement or anxiety, and did not offer to assist the officer in checking the the flames. They were arrested. They said they had upset a lamp.

Another fiendish plot to destroy life and property was discovered in the tenement 245 East One Hundred and Twenty-first street, which is occupied by over one hundred persons. Charles Balz, a barkeeper smelled smoke when be went home at 2:30 a. m. He roused the inmates, and a search revealed the fact that a heap of rubbish under the stairs was burning. The plot evidently was to cut off escape by the stairs. The fire escapes are somewhat deficient. The inmates were horrified to find that the front doors of this and three adjoining tenements had been removed, so that the people would have been trapped like rats.

Another case was that at 212 East Sixty-first street. A policeman saw smoke coming out of a cellar at 2 a. m. The several colored families in the house were aroused. It was found that fire had been kindled in a coal bin, and also in a pile of wood in another part of the cellar.

A fire was discovered Saturday afternoon in the cellar of the tenement, 843 Eleventh avenue. It was near some oil barrels, and doubtless incendiary. A tenant located the fire in time to save the building and its occupants.

The Brooklyn incendiaries are still at work. Sunday night a fire was found to have been kindled under the stairway in the basement of the tenement, 929 Myrtle avenue, occupied by several families. It was a store room, which is generally kept locked. The lock had been broken. The people in the house were panic-stricken, but all got out safely and the fire was extinguished without doing much damage.

Another incendiary fire was reported to the police last night. The landing and walls on the second floor of the four-story tenement house, 62 East One Hundred and Thirteenth street, had been saturated with kerosene oil and set on fire. The families in the house were awake at the time and the fire was put out before it gained any headway. The damage was small.

Newark also has its fire bugs. Late Sunday night fire was discovered on the second floor of the tenement, No. 31 Boyd street, Newark. The flames rapidly communicated to two adjoining tenements. There were about a dozen Polish families in the three tenements. There were many narrow escapes, and two persons who are missing are supposed to have perished in the flames. The buildings were burned out. The floor in which the fire was discovered was occupied by Solomon Epstein. His apartments, it is said, had been saturated with oil. The police are making an investigation.

Firebugs Confess.

BOSTON, March 24.—Fred. Valincowie, Leon Philenti, Jr., and Bert Johnson, who were arrested yesterday on charges of having set fire to several places in town and breaking and entering a number of stores, have confessed that the gang to which they belonged fired and burglarized a number of places. The three prisoners, who are under 16, were held in $1,000 in Salem.

LOUISIANA LEVEES.

Destructive Break in the Upper Part of the State.

NEW ORLEANS, March 24.—The Concord, or old Boss, levee, in east Carroll Parish, in this state, broke yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, and rapidly increased in width and depth all day. It is not thought by the engineer here that there is any chance of closing it, and as the levee was composed of light sandy dirt it is feared that it will wash badly and cause a great deal of damage. The break, the first in the levees in the upper portion of the state, is twelve miles north of Lake Providence and not far from Pecan Grove crevasse of last year, which was one of the most destructive that occurred here.

It will flood much the same country, portions of East Carroll, Madison, Tensas and Concordia parishes, the water returning to the Mississippi by way of Black and Red rivers, and some valuable cotton land in the track of the water will be submerged. Another bad effect will be to greatly prolong the duration of the high water on the lower river, and thereby increase the chance of other breaks. The Concord levee was an old one but had been raised and strengthened this year. Yesterday Maj. Richardson, chief of the state board of engineers, stated that the greatest danger was over, and that there was every reason to hope for escape from further crevasses.

Destitute Workmen.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., March 24.—Owing to the failure of the Cypress Lumber company at Sherrill, a most pitiable condition of affairs exist. When the mill closed 150 men were thrown out of work, and as none of them had received a dollar pay for their work in several months, they are in a destitute condition. The mill owes the men all the way from $5 to $600 each. Now that the failure has occurred they get nothing to live upon. It is understood a meeting of the creditors of the company will be called to try and come to a settlement.

The Grip in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, March 24.—The prevalence of the grip in Pittsburg and Allegheny has become a matter of serious alarm. Physicians are overworked and hospitals are crowded to their fullest capacity, largely on account of the epidemic. Medical authorities say that the number of cases now in this city is larger than at any time during last year's epidemic and name 5,000 cases as an approximate figure. The death rate for the past two weeks has been unusually large, and to grip and pneumonia is charged the increase.

Immigrants Arriving by Thousands.

NEW YORK, March 24.—On five steamers that arrived Sunday from European ports there were 3,148 immigrants. It will take the emigration officers two whole days to pass this army of men, women and children through the barge office, and before they are all sent their various ways the chances are that more immigrants will arrive to keep them busy. During the next thirty days it is estimated that 30,000 or 40,000 immigrants will arrive.

Arctic Explorer Returns.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 24.—W. W. Pike, an English explorer, has just returned from the Arctic circle where he has been for the past two years hunting musk, oxen and buffalo. His party underwent terrible suffering in their journey, being lost at one time for fourteen days without any food. The weather was terribly cold, as for six months in the year the sun never shines in that region.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Items of Interest Gathered at the National Capital.

MONEY FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The Limited Amount Appropriated Will Last Until the Meeting of the Next Congress—The Surplus in the United States Treasury—Other Dispatches From Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—In view of the limited amount of the unexpended appropriation for the use of the world's fair commission prior to July 1 next, there has been some question whether the commission would feel warranted in incurring the expense of a meeting in April next. A revision of estimates at the treasury department leads to the conclusion that the meeting need not be omitted for pecuniary reasons, and Secretary Foster yesterday telegraphed Secretary Dickinson, at Chicago, that he believed no obstacle exists to prevent the April meeting, especially in view of the fact that the commission may so legislate as to make it possible to pay all necessary expenses out of the sum apportioned to the commission.

The department, Secretary Foster said in his dispatch, will do all that is possible to aid in preventing a deficiency in funds available for the use of the commission during the current fiscal year.

Surplus in the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The surplus in the treasury at the close of business yesterday was about $13,000,000. Although the internal revenue receipts for February showed a falling off from the previous month, the custom receipts continue to roll up and the heavy decline on the treasury from the direct tax—about $3,000,000 so far—does not seem to materially affect it.

Kincaid's Plea.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—In the criminal court yesterday morning Charles E. Kincaid pleaded "not guilty" to the indictment for the murder of ex-Congressman Taulbee. The work of procuring a jury was then proceeded with with a measure of success, seven having been obtained before the noon recess.

Monetary Conference.

Mail Robber Arrested.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Chief Postoffice Inspector Rathbone has been informed of the arrest of James Finnegan at Seattle, Wash., charged with robbing the Port Townsend postoffice.

Dealing Out Justice Again.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Attorney General Miller returned from Florida yesterday and resumed the direction of affairs at the department of justice.

Secretary Foster on Duty.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Secretary Foster returned from Ohio yesterday morning and resumed his duties at the treasury department.

GARROTED AND ROBBED.

Daring and Dastardly Deed Done on a Moving Cattle Car.

CHICAGO, March 24.—John Wilson and Henry Mathews, two respectable citizens of Laporte, were seized by three burly ruffians while they were walking to their homes, a few miles outside that city, about dusk Sunday evening, and thrown into an empty cattle car, which was on its way to Chicago, attached to the regular cattle train.

The train stopped, but started as soon as the daring deed was committed. The ruffians threw the men to the floor of the car and robbed them of their valuables, which they only succeeded in taking after a desperate struggle. The robbers sprang upon their victims, and over and over they rolled, each man fighting for supremacy. The noise of the rapidly moving train and the cries of the huddled-up cattle drowned the shouts of the men for help.

Wilson and Mathews, who were big and strong, fought desperately for their lives, but the three robbers were too much for them. After a battle of nearly half an hour they were hurled from the rapidly moving train and left lying bruised, bleeding and unconscious by the roadside. Two hours afterward they were found and conveyed to a neighboring house, where they were revived. As soon as their story was learned the Chicago police were notified, but so far no arrests have been made. The wounded men were taken to their homes. They are both seriously injured, but not necessarily fatal.

Col. H. Clay King Pleads.

MEMPHIS, March 24.—Col. H. Clay King, who fatally shot Attorney David Poston a short time ago, was arraigned in court yesterday. He pleaded "not guilty." Judge Dubois set the case for April 6, and King was returned to jail.

Church Burned.

NEW ORLEANS, March 24.—St. Paul's Episcopal church, corner of Camp and Gannia streets, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Loss estimated at $15,000, insurance $25,000.

FITZSIMMONS' DEFENSE.

He Will Claim That His Wife Was Assaulted By the Two Detectives.

PITTSBURG, March 24.—Fitzsimmons, the murderer of Detective Gilkinson, was brought from Homestead and lodged in jail in this city yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Clark at whose residence in Homestead the murderer was discovered Sunday night, together with Miss Wyatt, a sister of Mrs. Clark, have also been arrested as accomplices. It is said that a large quantity of missing plunder has been found in the Clark residence. When the detectives searched Fitzsimmons' house, they found papers showing that Frederick C. Fitzsimmons had recently fallen heir to property in Brockville, Ont. County Detective Beltzhoover sent telegrams to Brockville seeking the history of the man who had murdered Detective Gilkinson Saturday night. The answer came promptly and read: "Frederick C. Fitzsimmons is at his home in this place."

Detective Beltzhoover was dumbfounded and said. "If Frederick C. Fitzsimmons is in his home in Canada, who is the man we have here in jail?"

The mystery thrown around the prisoner by the receipt of the telegram has not been penetrated. The opinion of the officers is, however, that the murderer had stolen the papers from the Canadian owner, and had assumed the name of the man to whom the papers rightfully belong. It is also currently reported that "Fitzsimmons" has confessed to the murder of Margaret Douglass in McKeesport last May, for which crime Eddie Myers, a nephew of the murdered woman is doing time in the penitentiary in this city.

Fitzsimmons and his wife have retained counsel and have prepared a defense on the ground that he was sleeping in bed, was awakened by an outcry and seeing two men assaulting his wife, he shot at them. He will claim that a man's house is his castle and that Gilkinson and Murphy had no right to force entrance to his house so suddenly.

PRIZE FIGHTER KILLED.

Fatal Tragedy in a Cincinnati House of Ill Fame.

CINCINNATI, March 24.—Louis Bezinah, the well known light-weight prize fighter, was shot and mortally wounded yesterday evening by Frank Duger, alias "Kid" Dugan, a sneak thief and pickpocket, whose home is in St. Paul, Minn

The shooting occurred in a George street house of ill fame, kept by May Riley. Duger had been her lover, and when he called at her house yesterday evening the woman declined to see him. He went to her room and drew a revolver and fired at her twice, one shot taking effect in the back of her head and the other in her arm. Bezinah, who was present at the time attempted to grapple with the man, but two shots from Duger's smoking pistol laid him low. The fifth shot struck another woman in the mouth, knocking out her teeth.

A patrol wagon was summoned and the wounded man taken to the hospital. The woman's injuries are not necessarily fatal, but Bezinah, it is not thought, will survive the night. He is shot in the breast and bowels. Duger was arrested and locked up at the Central police station. Bezinah has an excellent record as a pugilist, having won thirty-five battles in the ring and never lost one. Muldoon has a forfeit of $200, posted in this city, that Bezinah could whip any man of his class in the world, barring Jack McAuliffe and Billy Meyer.

Made Sure of Death.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 24.—M. W. Moorehouse, aged 39 years, of Greenfield hill, committed suicide Sunday by shooting himself. He took to bed with him Saturday night a double-barrelled shotgun and a razor. Sunday morning he sat up in bed, pressed the triggers with his toes and both barrels were discharged into his breast. Despondency over the recent death of his wife was the cause.

Driven to Suicide.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 24.—Herman Bodes, aged 40, bookkeeper of the Providence Dairy company, whose oleomargarine factory was seized last week, committed suicide by shooting himself yesterday. It is not known whether Bodes was short in his accounts, but he was accused by some of the workmen of wrong-doing, and this had evidently preyed upon his mind.

OHIO STATE NEWS.

Dispatches Detailing Important Happenings.

AN INVESTIGATION ASKED FOR.

Professor Orton, the State Geologist, accused of Favoring the Standard Oil Company By Misrepresenting the Northwestern Ohio Oil Fields—Other Buckeye Dispatches.

COLUMBUS, O., March 24.—Representative Griffin, by request of Representative Brown, of Hancock county, introduced in the house a joint resolution asking for a joint committee of the legislature to investigate charges against Professor Edward Orton, state geologist. Those interested in the natural gas fields of northeastern Ohio aver that Professor Edward Orton, by public declarations made in the last geological survey report, is influencing capital from investing in several counties within the natural gas belt.

The resolution recites that while nominally in the employ of the state, Professor Orton is in fact representing the Standard Oil company, to the extent of depreciating the value and permanence of the gas plants in northwestern Ohio, so as to enable that company to take in all the gas lands held by individuals at a price far below their real value, and thus shut out all influential competition on the part of individuals or other companies.

The house transacted a large amount of business at the night session.

The tail end of the famous board of public improvements, of Cincinnati, gave another expiring squirm in the house, and Mr. McMaken, of Butler county, introduced a bill repealing the act creating the board. His object was to abolish the board, independent of the charter bill, so that if the latter should be declared unconstitutional the board could not drop back into existence. Mr. McMaken had the bill read the second time and put on its passage, but the Cincinnati members made a kick and ruling against it, the measure was defeated.

Representative Day, of Hamilton county, introduced a novel and elaborate scheme for the cure and reformation of drunkards. Any person charged with habitual drunkenness or occasional drunkenness on conviction shall be declared incompetent to control himself. The governor shall appoint a board of five trustees, to be known as the state board of trustees of hospitals and institutions for the cure of drunkenness. The county commissioners are authorized to purchase grounds and buildings for hospitals for drunkards, or to make arrangements with private institutions and adopt regulations for the government of these persons. Any person standing committed as a drunkard shall be conveyed and kept in the hospitals for a term of not less than six months for occasional and periodical drunkenness and not less than one year for an habitual drunkard.

Representative Cutler last night introduced in the house two bills which are being enacted into laws by all the states. They were drawn up by the National Bar association and the first supplements, 5669 revised statutes, relating to the prevention of fraudulent divorces and makes it uniform with other states. The other establishes uniformity in the acknowledgement of deeds.

MANSFIELD'S MYSTERY.

The Injured Drummer Identified as O. F. Chauncey, of Alexandria, Va.

MANSFIELD, O., March 23.—O. F. Chauncey, the man who was injured in a runaway accident last Wednesday and who has remaind unconscious ever since, has been identified.

The Cleveland press yesterday morning contained a brief interview with George F. Gorham, of that city, who said: "From the description of the man I think he is O. F. Chauncey, of Alexandria, Va., where his father is now living." Mr. Gorham further stated that he had met Chauncey about two months ago in Pittsburg and that Chauncey claimed to be a traveling man, but he did not know who Chauncey was traveling for.

Acting upon this clew, Landlord Bird, of the Hotel Von Hof, telegraphed the chief of police of Alexandria that a man named O. F. Chauncey had been seriously injured by an accident in this city, and that it was believed Chauncey's father lived in that city. He asked that the authorities investigate and report. At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon the following telegram was received:

ALEXANDRIA, March 23.

Telegraph full particulars of accident and condition of my son.

J. F. CHAUNCEY.

Farmer Killed by His Son.

HILLSBORO, O., March 24.—William W. Moore, a wealthy farmer in the northwestern part of Highland county, was shot through the heart and instantly killed yesterday morning by his 18-year-old son, Oscar. The boy gave himself voluntarily up and claims that the deed was done in self-defense. Young Moore claims that he and his father quarreled at breakfast about some money which his mother left him, and which his father refused to give him since her death.

Two Men Injured in a Wreck.

COSHOCTON, O., March 24.—The limited mail No. 7 on the Pennsylvania line ran into the rear of a freight train at Conesville, eight miles east of Coshocton, because the freight train had broken in two just as it was making the siding. DELIBERATE SUICIDE.

A Doctor Takes Poison After Describing How It Would Affect Him.

FINDLAY, O., March 24.—Dr. B. M. Pahl, a well known and prominent German physician, committed suicide yesterday morning by taking fifty-eight morphia pills. On the wall of his office where he was found dead was a calculation in which he had figured out how long it would take him to die.

This schedule of time showed when the first effect of the poison would be noticeable when he would become intoxicated and would lose his consciousness. From this it was gathered he took the morphia at 7 o'clock and expected to be dead by 10 o'clock. He seemed to have made a mistake in figures, as he was found dead at 8:45.

Dr. Pahl was a native of Heidelburg, Germany, 48 years old, and was a highly educated man. He practiced medicine for a time in St. Petersburg, Russia, before coming to this country. Domestic trouble was the cause of the self-murder. He leaves a wife and four children.

RAVAGES OF LA GRIPPE.

It Has Become Epidemic in New York City—The Disease Elsewhere.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Dr. Edson, of the board of health, stated yesterday morning that he believed there was an epidemic of the grip in this city at present. The death rate, the doctor said, last week stood at 840, which was at least 200 above the average. Of these deaths 131 were caused by pneumonia, which showed an increase of thirty-seven over the previous week.

"I have," added Dr. Edson, "seen several sick persons whom I found suffering from the grip, and in addition a number of medical men with whom I have conversed informed me that many of their patients are down with the disease."

The high death rate and the increase in the number of deaths from pneumonia indicate that the grip has once more appeared. President Wilson, of the board of health, has a slight attack of the grip.

VERY PECULIAR.

The Perrien Kidnapping Has an Accompaniment Which May Bear on It.

DETROIT, March 24.—The excitement over the abduction of Joseph Perrien last week has brought out particulars of another mysterious disappearance from Perrien's residence about Christmas time. The missing person is a former servant of Perrien's, named Carolina Beck.

Her brother has called at the miller's residence from time to time to try to get an interview with his sister, but without avail, as the family have always put him off with excuses that the girl was ill or away from home. A reporter got hold of the story yesterday, and secured an interview with Perrien, who admitted having knowledge of the girl's whereabouts, saying she was in one of the city's institutions, and adding that the police had the particulars of the case. The circumstance is regarded as peculiar in view of last week's events.

Boiled to Death.

PITTSBURG, March 24.—Last Thursday Henry Reddy, whose home was on Beaver avenue, Allegheny, entered the salt works of Haller, Beck & Company, on Rebecca street, in an intoxicated condition. After a struggle the watchman succeeded in putting Reddy out of the building. He sat down in an open window and had not been seen since. Yesterday his body was found at the bottom of one of the boiling salt vats. It is supposed that he went to sleep on the window-sill and fell backward into the vat, where he was literally boiled to death.

The Merrimac Overflowed.

CONCORD, N. H., March 24.—The indications here are that there will be a heavy flood in the Merrimac river. In many places it has already overflowed its banks and is rapidly rising.

THERE are moving times, even if matters are pretty dull.

A LITTLE sunshine will hasten the blossoming of spring candidates. There are no indications of a scarcity, however.

It isn't hardly fair to charge the miserable streets to the council. It is the weather this time, and cities with far better streets than Marion are unhappy over the mud.

THE merchants with an eye to business will remember that newspaper advertising, properly done, is the surest source of a good trade, and the STAR is by far the most desirable medium.

THERE is ample ground for thankfulness in the fact that the grip is not so fatal in its attacks this year as last. Its prevalence in Marion this season is much greater than last, but luckily most sufferers have been able to recover.

THE Lima Republican says Marion is to have a new opera house this season, a fine one. If the Republican will give its authority for such a bit of news and the authority is reliable, the STAR will get out an appropriate edition to celebrate the event.

A WYANDOT neighbor says there are flies on the Marion Board of Trade. We trust this may be proven a slander and the paper be made to retract. Experience has taught, however, that newspapers generally know what they are talking about.

MR. CLEVELAND again expresses tearful sympathy for the unhappy farmer and prescribes tariff reform as the only relief. This comes in one of the regular letters that are issued to tariff reform clubs for publication. We expect to soon hear of Mr. Cleveland joining the Farmers' Alliance, thus becoming an active member rather than a sympathizing and patronizing outsider.

THERE is a notable lack of old material in the names suggested for councilmen. The fellows who have done service and been freely cussed, without pay and mighty few kind words, do not care to re-enter aldermanic duties. But this is not the only reason, some retire after a guess at possible results and others are looking for better things further on, in the line of serving the public.

MR. HALSTEAD makes a very sarcastic reference to the death of three Iowa children who were treated with "faith cure fanatics" instead of physicians, and then cruelly says that the Alliance statesmen bear the same relation to financial science as the christian science healers do to the administration for diseases. Halstead never loses an opportunity to cast an arrow into the hay fever camp.

THE gas counties are after Prof. Orton for saying that the gas supply is failing, and they want him investigated. This brings about an embarrassing state of affairs. Who are we to believe, Orton or the interested boomers? In face of so many failing wells Orton's opinion seems the safer one. If the wells are not failing, so much the better for those enjoying the commodity. If they should fail, those who have accepted Orton's advice are much ahead financially. Gas ought no longer to be an essential boom element anyhow.

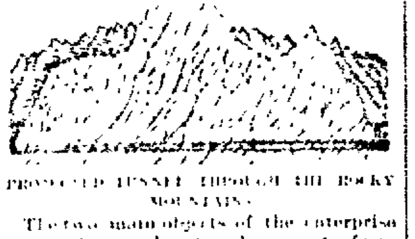
SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

THINGS WIDE AWAKE MEN AND WOMEN WANT TO KNOW

A Bold Project for Reducing the Railway Distance Between Two Important Cities and Working Valuable Ore Veins by Tunneling the Rocky Mountains.

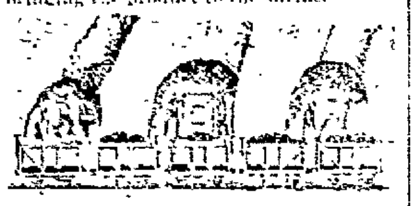
Among the most [illegible] of modern [illegible] is one of tunneling the Rocky mountains. Such a project, however, [illegible] is not only under consideration but actually under way. It is reported that the tunnel has already been driven [illegible] feet on the east side of the mountain, and [illegible] feet on the west side.



PROJECTED TUNNEL THROUGH THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS.

The two main objects of the enterprise are to obtain a direct railway route from Denver, Colo., to Salt Lake City, by which the distance would be shortened 250 miles, and to strike and work the many rich ore veins which are supposed to run in vertical lines through the mountains, as shown in the first cut.

The number of mines expected to be tapped is more than 2[illegible]. These veins are to be reached at depths varying from 1,500 to 4,4[illegible] feet below the tops of the mountains, thus enabling the miners to drive their workings overhead, instead of climbing to the summits and working downward. Great advantages are also claimed, both in taking care of the water and in bringing the product to the surface.



MODE OF WORKING VEINS IN TUNNEL.

The length of the proposed tunnel is to be 25,[illegible] feet. The manner of driving the workings and loading the ore is shown in the accompanying cut from The Iron Trade Review, to which we are indebted for the foregoing facts in regard to an enterprise which cannot fail to interest even those most skeptical of its fulfillment.

Counting the Dust Particles.

Dr. McPherson describes in Knowledge a contrivance devised by Mr. John Aitken for approximately counting the dust particles in a given volume of air. Thus the bright motes dancing in the sunbeam, hitherto assumed to be beyond the power of computation, are brought within the range of human calculation. Mr. Aitken's processes confirm the accepted inference that without dust there could be neither fogs, mist nor rain. If two glass receivers, the one filled with common air and the other with filtered air, be placed alongside each other and a jet of steam be introduced, the first will become dense with fog while the other will remain clear.

The conclusion arrived at is that the particles, though invisible, being free surfaces, attract the condensing vapor, and in the shape of fog assume a visible existence. By making a mixture of ordinary and filtered air and then introducing a jet of steam Mr. Aitken produced a shower of mist particles, which he counted as they fell on a prepared silver surface. An average being obtained, he estimated each cubic inch of air to contain [illegible] particles. In the air of Glasgow he found 7,000,000, and in that of Edinburgh 4,000,000. Above a Bunsen gas jet he found [illegible] of particles, and in the air collected on a mountain side a large amount of cosmic dust.

Where Pumice Stone Comes From.

We often hear it remarked, and particularly after an eruption of a volcano, that pumice stone ought to be plentiful and cheap, as quantities must have been ejected during the volcanic disturbance. As a matter of fact, however, says the Manufacturer and Builder, none of the [illegible] volcanoes. [illegible] one or two [illegible] of the globe [illegible] the island of Lipari [illegible]

ALL AROUND [illegible]

A Household Skeleton—[illegible] Trash and What to Do With It.

Do we not all know the dreary array of pictures [illegible] that have passed their first youth, [illegible] receivers which were never [illegible], scrap baskets in all stages of dilapidation, [illegible] tables [illegible] and other relics of the day when the great high art fever had just begun to work in our blood? What can be more depressing than the discordant adornments of our bedroom walls—framed wreaths of autumn leaves, certificates and testimonials, perforated board texts and mottoes in more or less diabolical combinations of color? Why, I have a closet full of such things, writes a clever woman in Good Housekeeping. That is my skeleton, and many a time have I wished it were buried and forgotten. Some women have the courage to make an annual holocaust, and thereby secure to themselves peace of mind.

When we first went to housekeeping we had just about such an assortment of trash as most people have. The suggestion of my better half to "put them in the spare room" was considered at first a practical solution of the problem, but in course of time that spare room became a nightmare to me. By all means, do not put them in the spare room. Rather consign them gently to the ash barrel, make a bonfire of them, hire a boy to take them so far away that you will never see them again. Do not attempt to give them away. It is bad enough to be poor, but to be the recipient of other people's broken down bric-a-brac, and to feel obliged to be grateful for it—that is poverty indeed.

Let us have the courage to throw away every unbeautiful thing in our homes unless it happens to be useful, in which case it has proved its right to exist. Don't let us be afraid of bare walls. Better a thousand times a bare wall than an ugly picture that we dislike every time we look at it. Better an empty mantelpiece than one disfigured by a pair of badly colored vases. Better eschew scarfs altogether than have an uninteresting rag tied on every chair. One word more, and this the result of sad experience: Never buy cheap looking bric-a-brac or things that "will do very well." They will not do very well. Even when first seen in their places one will feel misgivings, and before long will detest them sincerely.

An Economical and Dainty Dessert.

Every housewife knows how, when she comes to fill her jars with the preserved fruits of the season, there is always a quantity of the liquid in excess of the solid fruit. This liquid can be utilized as a sauce for various kinds of puddings, but a still more attractive way of serving it is described in The Housekeepers' Weekly. This is to add to it a sufficient quantity of gelatine to give it solidity, and set it aside to cool in a mold of pleasing design, such as a bunch of flowers or cluster of fruit. When ready to serve turn out on a small platter and serve with whipped cream poured around it. Any kind of fruit juice will be palatable served in this way, but the most spicy dish is made from that of the small, yellow, plum tomato preserve, flavored with lemon juice and ginger.

A Housewife's Experience.

"Tea leaves are the best thing to use in sweeping carpets. This is my belief after trying various other things. They brighten the carpet, keep down dust, and can be [illegible]. My experience with salt is that it is impossible to sweep it all up, and after it has been used for some time, especially on Brussels, it gets into the carpet and keeps it damp, so that on damp days and when a room is shut up there comes to be a distinctly unpleasant odor. It also rusts [illegible] on the furniture. The tea leaves should not be used very wet on carpets having very light colored grounds, as they are liable to stain these."

A Charming Bedroom.

It is a pretty fashion to have everything in a bedroom to correspond. A charming room we know of has the bedspread, bureau cover and [illegible] all made of [illegible] powdered with yellow primroses. [illegible] is edged with narrow lace and the white muslin curtains are [illegible] with primrose yellow ribbons. The carpet is of the same shade of tone in Brussels "ingrain," which is, as you know, a solid color, and the furniture for this pretty room is of white enamel.—Tribune.

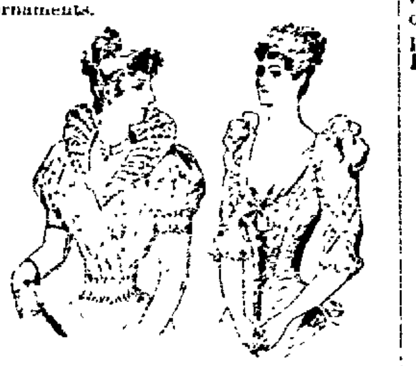
DRESS AND FASHION.

FASHIONS THAT FIND APPROVAL AT HOME AND ABROAD.

Greek and Empire Styles of Dressing the Hair Adapted to Modern Times for Balls and Other Evening Entertainments.

For balls and evening parties the hair is worn arranged in Greek and Empire styles adapted to the present time, with varied ornaments.

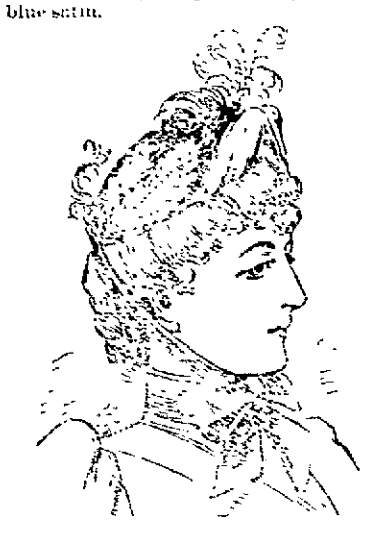


FASHIONABLE HAIR DRESSING.

The waved hair is drawn to the back and formed into a small chignon or knot, which makes the head end in a point, like the Greek statues. In front the hair frise, in a small tuft, with a curl in the middle of the forehead, or light curls on the temples if the forehead is high. In the coiled chignon are placed two long pronged pins of tortoise shell, with ornamental heads. Sometimes a light twist, or roll of tulle spotted with gold or silver, forms a kind of turban, with small aigrette or feather tips in front amid the frizzed hair. Gold galon is also much seen as bandelettes, or the diadem comb in jewels, half hidden in the hair. Pearls, real and imitation, are often mixed in the twists of the chignon or knot. In our cut are shown two fashionable coiffures. The figures therein also represent two pleasing styles of bodice for evening gowns.

Hats and Bonnets.

In the cut here presented is illustrated a charming bonnet for wear at the present season, when felt appears too wintry and straw too early. The soft crown, also the strings, are in sapphire blue velvet. The side trimmings are gold leaves, which harmonize with the bird of Paradise aigrettes both at the front and back. In the center of the brim a pulling is arranged in pale blue satin.



AN ATTRACTIVE BONNET.

The hats and bonnets for the preliminary spring season are decorated with all manner of seasonable blossoms. The crowns of large hats are wreathed with chains of violets, and small bonnets are made entirely of the same flowers. The most fascinating flower bonnet I have seen was made of lilies of the valley. The milliners are putting small bunches of daffodils in the fronts of bonnets. An abundance of white lilac and mimosa is being used for the same purpose.

Extra Silk Waists.

China silk waists to wear with various skirts are part of a lady's outfit for summer. These, says Harper's Bazar, are [illegible] twelve [illegible] of women of average height [illegible]. A pretty waist [illegible] with skirts of silk or of [illegible] blue China silk [illegible] with the silk [illegible] and lapped to the waist line in front and in back alike. The V [illegible] covered flatly with [illegible] white Irish lace [illegible]. A scantily gathered [illegible]. A high collar band is covered with black velvet. The sleeves are [illegible]

The Cheaper Way.

"What on earth are you taking boxing lessons for?" asked one Detroit dry goods clerk of another the other evening as he found him stripped off and punching the ball.

"Well, I'll tell you on the quiet. I've got an enemy. I want to lick him. After I have taken twenty-four lessons I'm going to put a nose on him."

"How much a lesson?"

"One dollar."

"That's $24, while you can hire a plug to knock all his teeth out and blacken both eyes for a five dollar bill. Come off the perch with such a poor financial policy as you display?"—Detroit Free Press.

Deliberate Determination.

Trying to Get Even.

A tramp sneaked up to the window of Col. Merrill's kitchen, and taking off his remnant of a hat said to Matilda Snowball, who is blacker than the ace of spades:

"Fair lady, can't you give a poor but respectable man something to stay his stomach? Have you no pie, for instance?"

Matilda had both compassion and pie, and cutting one of the latter in half, gave one of them to the polite visitor, remarking that he was a gentleman, even if he was white.

"Thanks," he responded. "May you retain your present beauty for a thousand years."

"Dat's twice too much," said Matilda, blushing.

"Well, if it's twice too much, fair lady, give me the other half of the pie to make us even." He got it.—Texas Siftings.

Watterson's Receipt.

Henry Watterson is quick in repartee, and now and then perpetrates a good thing on the spur of the moment. He met in Washington, at the Riggs house, the celebrated poet-lobbyist, Col. Dick Wintersmith. The latter was in a gastronomic quandary, and told Mr. Watterson that he (Wintersmith) had an idea of ordering a dinner of fine beefsteak and onions. He was skeptical as to whether the Riggs house could serve a dinner of onions and beefsteak that would have real onions and yet leave no offensive odor upon the breath.

"Col. Dick, I can tell you what to do," said Watterson.

"What is that?"

"Why, go to John Chamberlin's and order beefsteak and onions, and when you pay your bill it will take your breath away."—New York World.

Business Is Business.

A gentleman at the risk of his own life has saved a clothes dealer whose boat had been upset. As they stand dripping on the shore at last the latter addresses him in these words: "I thank you a thousand times for saving my life. I see that you have spoiled your clothes in this happy event. May I take this opportunity to hand you my business card? I have 10,000 of the finest summer suits at the low price of only 48 marks."—Fliegende Blatter.

No Wonder.

Doctor—Your husband's appetite?——

Wife—Oh, he has no appetite to speak of.

Doctor—Why, I saw him at a restaurant a few days ago, and I declare! he ate ravenously. Gracious! he ordered dinner enough for three.

I see in the last "Central" that you want a sick headache remedy. I feel for any one that suffers with that terrible disease, and I hope you will give it a trial.

The First Symptoms of Death.

Tired feeling, dull headache, pains in various parts of the body, sinking at the pit of the stomach, loss of appetite, feverishness, pimples or sores, are all positive evidence of poisoned blood. No matter how it became poisoned it must be purified to avoid death. Dr. Acker's English Blood Elixir has never failed to remove scrofulous or syphilitic poisons. Sold under positive guarantee. Sold by H. C. Hoberman & Co. and W. B. Foye.

An exchange declares that the man who said this was going to be a hard winter and the other man who insisted that it was going to be an open winter, both seem to have hit the nail exactly on the head.

How to Succeed.

This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of [illegible], the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. They are nervous, irresolute, changeable, easily get the blues and "take the spirits down to keep the spirits up," thus wasting money, time, opportunity and nerve force. There is nothing like the Restorative Nervine, discovered by the great specialist, Dr. Miles, to cure all nervous diseases, as headache, the blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits, and hysteria. Trial bottles and a fine book of testimonials free at Denison & Co.'s and Hoberman & Co.'s.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

Distress After Eating

Sick Headache

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."

The final rehearsal of the Elks' entertainment took place this afternoon and proved that their show is to be a grand success.

The guessing on the Enquirer Easter prizes of $200 has a large number of contestants in Marion, and the results will be announced next Sunday.

C. H. Light, who has secured a position in the Erie local yards, is preparing to remove his family here from Galion the latter part of this week.

At the beginning of the schools Monday for the spring term they showed an enrollment of 1359, divided among the different buildings as follows: Central—482, Silver street—61, West Marion—32, Garden City—26, North No 2—37, North No.1—208, South—167, East—346.

Sam Malloy, the man who was arrested Saturday and plead guilty to the charge of assault, was sentenced to the Cleveland workhouse for thirty days and fined $20 and costs, which will give him quite a stay at that institution. Flannagin, the one who plead guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly at the same time was fined $5.

Quite a number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Cozad called at their home on Silver street Monday evening for the purpose of celebrating the birthday of Mr. Cozad. The affair was quite a surprise to him, but he soon accommodated himself to the occasion and the young people had a very enjoyable time, indeed all went home commenting upon the kind hospitality of their host and hostess.

Col. Fred Issleib has announced his intention of not being a candidate for re-election to the city council. The Third warder has many constituents who desire him to fight their battles in the council chambers, but it seems his decision is positive and he will not run again. This determination on Mr. Issleib's part removes the probability of there being more than about one member of the old council returned.

THEY'RE AFTER HIM.

He's the Individual They Require—Dr. Bonner Unexpectedly Leaves Town and Many Creditors.

There was considerable excitement in business circles about the city this morning when it was learned that Dr. Bonner, the veterinary surgeon, had unexpectedly left the city, leaving many creditors to regret his sudden departure.

It appears that the Doctor had made all his preparations to leave without any suspicions being aroused as to his intentions. He was at his usual haunt, Hoberman's drug store, Monday night at shutting up time, and went from there to his room in the Gregory block immediately afterward. But in less than two hours the Doctor turned up at the Big Four depot, where he purchased a ticket to Sheridan, Ill. He stated to the agent that he was going away on a few days' visit, when he would return. This, however, was not believed, for at the same time he paid for 520 pounds of excess baggage, which discredited the story of the visit.

The porter of the Kerr House was at the depot when Bonner took train 9 a few minutes later, and he soon informed Frank Johnston of the man's departure. Bonner owed the Kerr House proprietors $135 for board and horse feed, and Frank Johnston soon had a message sent to Union City, Ind., ordering the fleeing Doctor arrested. Word soon returned that the train had been stopped before crossing the state line at the above city and that Bonner was in the hands of officers. Marshal Redd left for the above named place this morning for the purpose of bringing him back to meet his creditors. It is expected he will arrive this evening

Dr. Bonner came to this city a year ago last Christmas, from whence we are unable to state, but it is evident he didn't come on a Christmas tree. He was a genial and social fellow, and soon made many friends. He prospered in his business as a veterinary surgeon, and was apparently kept busy nearly all the time. For this reason his way of going into debt seems inexcusable, and seems to have been done with the intention of doing up somebody. So far as heard from a dozen or more business men have accounts against him, ranging from ten dollars up to seventy-five. The bills were for dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, etc. Among the etceteras was the purchase of four umbrellas at the cost of $28. A very liberal estimate places the amount of his indebtedness at above $500, so far as heard from, and it is possible that there are many on the list who have so far been missed. Wm. Fies levied on the furniture in his room this morning to satisfy a claim of $30, and he is the only one who has secured himself against complete loss.

The Doctor called upon Rev. Wallace Monday and had a social hour or two with him, during which he commented upon his Sunday's sermon, and referred to it as hitting himself quite promiscuously. His departure has been the talk of the town today and his return is awaited with much interest, though how the matter will end is not known.

TO THE WORKHOUSE

Charles Rathel, Robert Rathel and James Douglas Sentenced.

Robert Rathel and James Douglas were arraigned in court this afternoon and given an opportunity to plead guilty to the malicious destruction of property to the amount of $50, as found by the jury in the verdict of Charles Rathel, who was tried last week. They plead guilty accordingly and the three men were sentenced by Judge Norris to thirty days in the workhouse at Cleveland, and fined $75 each and costs.

The sentences are considered quite severe, especially in the case of Charles Rathel, the costs of prosecution in his case alone amounting to between two and three hundred dollars. If compelled to work out these his sentence will be prolonged to considerable length, while that of the others would not be light by any means. The court room was crowded this afternoon when sentence was pronounced. The cases all along have excited considerable interest, and have been quite expensive, a small army of witnesses being called.

William Williams, the man caught at Caledonia Monday morning in the act of burglarizing Pitman & Irwin's store, was given a preliminary hearing before Mayor Hahn at that place Monday evening and bound over to court. He was brought to this city by Marshal Patten today, and placed in the county jail.

Col. Jim Sargent has received a letter from the manager of Janauschek, asking for a date here on or about the 5th of May. The mention of this name will be sufficient to awake an interest among theatre-going people here.

Squeezing the Market.

"It must be nice to be a bear," said Amanda softly, as she pre-empted another inch of Bibbins' half of the sofa.

"You think so?"

"Yes; it says in the paper that the bears on the market are being squeezed."

And then from the sofa came a sigh of satisfaction that denoted that in spite of the pressure no bear panic was imminent. —St. Joseph News.

She Humored Him.

"You have a scar upon your cheek?"
Said Everard to modest Zeke.
"Explain it!"
The latter seemed inclined to quell
The secret, tho' he couldn't well
Contain it.

A moment stood he like a fool,
And then from verbal vestibule
He shot it.
"You see," said he, with manners bland,
"I asked Miss Pepper for her hand,
And got it."

The Leaves.

No leaf as yet! though like a wraith of snow
The white bell flowers have burst their sheathing green
And yielded to deep violets, and the sheen
Of those faint primroses that early strew
The garment of the earth. Verdure below,
But ne'er a budding leaf to come between
Our eyes and the blue ether, broadly seen
Through tracery of beeches, stretching low
From mighty rafter boughs—the sere brown eaves
Of woodland palaces, where rocking high
The solemn rook in sable chorus weaves
A twig into his nest, and yet more nigh
A wild bird sings of love among the leaves—
The leaves that are to be when spring is by.
—C. A. Dawson in Chambers' Journal.

Killed by a Captive Rattlesnake.

Alfred Duc, a Frenchman who has been living in a small cabin on the Schnell ranch, two miles north of Tia Juana, had a sort of fascination for snakes, and the reptiles appeared to realize that he was their especial friend. Neighbors tell that within the past few months he has never been known to be without one or more snakes in the cabin. Blacksnakes and copperheads made their home under his house, and he would stop on the field to caress a snake of any kind.

For about a week he has had a large rattler in the house, but as the reptile was not of the trustworthy family Duc made for it a housing place in an empty oil can. Since then he has been handling the snake at odd times, endeavoring to tame it into docility.

Sunday afternoon he had the snake out as usual, displaying it to a young man named Cresswell. He had it lying on his lap, his right hand closed loosely around the body just back of the head. It writhed about and finally freed its head. Then the reptile formed itself into a curl and like a flash of lightning buried its deadly fangs in the flesh of Duc's right hand. He appeared to think little about the matter and did not even bandage the wound. On Tuesday C. N. Flattery, of the San Diego Undertaking company, received a telephone message from Tia Juana saying, "Bring coffin (giving size) and come at once." The coffin was for Duc, and he died in horrible agony from the bite of the snake. —San Diego Sun.

New Zealand's Wild Horses.

"Aboard the ship that carried me from New Zealand to San Francisco were six thoroughbred New Zealand horses," remarked T. Harding McLaurin, a wealthy sheepgrower of that British possession, soon after he arrived at the Grand Pacific hotel. "And the owner expects to accomplish wonders with these animals. It is a strange thing to many that good horses should be bred in New Zealand. I dare say that when I get to England, and when I relate various matters, my friends will answer with a stare of incredulity. As a point of fact the vast plains to the north of my place—Otago—are the homes of great herds of wild horses that roam about as fearlessly as did the mustangs or broncos of your western plains.

"Are they better horses than the mustangs? Well, they are as far above the American article as the pure blooded Arabian is above an ordinary draught horse. They are large and well built, and there is no uniformity of color. They live upon the rich tassocks and peelie grass that abound on their once volcanic fields.

"The New Zealand wild horse is a hard one to break, but once brought under control he makes a magnificent driving or carriage animal. Cheap too. I have seen beautiful fourteen hand horses sold for fifteen pounds to be used for coaches. Breeding with imported stock produces a variety such as would be well adapted to America. Just now sheep raising is the great industry of the island, but I predict a great future for the horse trade."—Chicago News.

Strange and Fatal Accident.

A peculiar and fatal accident happened recently to a man named Dunham who lived in Kechi township, Sedgwick county, Kan. A farmer named Martin had killed a number of hogs, which he left hanging in his yard over night. In the morning one was gone, and in looking around for some trace which might reveal the cause of its disappearance, he noticed, a short distance from his house, something strange propped against a rail fence, and on investigating found his hog hanging by the gambrel stick around the neck of Dunham.

The thief's neck was broken, and he had evidently been dead some hours. The supposition is that while climbing the fence Dunham's burden had slipped and caught his head in the noose formed by the two legs and the cross stick, and the heavy weight had instantaneously cracked his neck.—Kansas City Star.

Jumped the Rails and Jumped Back Again

A peculiar accident happened recently on the local Omaha line. In going to the junction, and before reaching Hersey & Bean's mill, the passenger and smoking cars left the track, owing to a broken rail, ran some distance on the ties, struck a switch and regained the rails. The engine and tender had not left the rails.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

General Sherman, like George Bancroft, was very fond of young people. He liked to have them about him, and frequently treated them with more consideration than he did their elders. He was a thorough democrat in his relations with his fellowmen. He would talk with a laboring man as readily as with a millionaire.—Exchange.

Walter Miller, of Middleton, Conn., makes the strange boast that he has skinned more skunks this winter than any politician in the Nutmeg state. So far his record is forty-five skins. Mr. Miller states that the only drawback to the business is that he is compelled to live practically by himself.

The late Ben Ali Haggin's un-American name is said to have been bestowed upon him by his father out of regard for a pasha who once befriended him when he was a wanderer in foreign lands without money or friends. Now the copper king's wealth is estimated at $40,000,000.

Messrs Morrill, Edmunds, Sherman and Ransom are the only members of the senate still in service who were in the chamber when Mr. Ingalls first went there.

Baron Hirsch has been described as a bad penman, and the charge has been made that his signature resembles a bold, wild zigzagging of tangled pen marks.

When John W. Starin was a boy he was so poor that he always carried his boots on his shoulders from his home to the village where he worked so as not to wear them out.

Mayor Pettibone, of Cincinnati, says that notwithstanding the profound peace which this country enjoys that city alone turns out on an average 10,000 regular army swords every year.

Phil Armour, the Chicago pork man, is of medium height and heavy, but not fat. His face is full and round and adorned by a pair of Burnsides. He is quick in speech and easily approachable.

Sir August Paget receives $40,000 a year as British minister to Austria. This salary enables him to keep on good terms with the imperial family and the aristocracy, and his duties do not extend much beyond this.

Delaware is said to have more living ex-governors than any other state in the Union. Five of them—B. T. Biggs, John P. Cochran, James Ponder, John W. Hall and Charles F. Stokley—are still engaged in active business.

Gen. Jacob Ammen, of Lockland, O., is probably the oldest living general of the late war. He was born in Botetourt county, Va., in 1808, enlisted as a private, became colonel of the Twenty-fourth Ohio and the next year a brigadier general.

SAMSONS OF THE PAST.

A butcher who lived many years ago in South Holland killed calves by strangling them.

Some years ago a negro appeared in London who, with one hand and his arm out straight, lifted from the ground a chair on which was seated a full grown man having on his lap a child.

Knut Knudson, a Danish locksmith, while standing in a window on the ground floor, lifted with one hand half a bullock from the shoulder of a butcher who was toiling past with his load.

A Dutch count in a private entertainment bent an iron bar by beating it with his right hand against his left arm, protected by a leather bandage, bending it afterward straight again by beating it the other way.

Charles Louvier, a carpenter of Paris, found it child's play to roll a tin basin between his fingers into a cylinder. On one occasion he carried off a soldier on guard who had gone to sleep in the sentry box, depositing both on a low churchyard wall close by.

It is on record that a German called Buchholz lifted with his teeth a cannon weighing about 200 pounds, and fired it off in that position. While performing at Epernay, in France, the same feat the barrel of the gun burst. Miraculously he was not killed.

On March 28, 1841, Thomas Thompson lifted three barrels of water, weighing together 1,836 pounds. He also put an iron bar on his neck, seized hold of its two ends and bent it until the latter met. On another occasion he raised with his teeth a table six feet long, supporting at its farthest end a weight of 100 pounds.—Chambers' Journal.

A French critic declares, after examining the contribution of George F. Watts to the Royal academy, that the workmanship is that of "a barbarian, but a very learned barbarian," and states that the white horse in the picture surpasses Courbet's work.

The seated statue of the late President Woolsey, of Yale, modeled by Professor John F. Weir, will cost about $15,000. It is proposed to erect it on the campus. A committee of graduates of the university has undertaken to raise the money by $10 subscriptions from the alumni.

M. Durand Ruel states that the price for which the Meissonier "Return from Moscow," or "1814," was sold has been greatly exaggerated. Instead of paying $170,000, as reported, he paid $100,000. It was bought originally by M. Delahante for $14,000, and when M. Chauchard paid him $100,000 he sent Meissonier $10,000.

CLEANFAST

HOSIERY.

Called so because the dye is as pure and clean as white. Other dyes are poisonous, but this dye is the only absolutely Fast Black on Cotton ever discovered. And has no effect on it. A still greater test is the perspiration of the feet, which will not change it. It requires no special care in washing, soap can be freely used, and it will improve the lustre. The wearing quality is unsurpassed by any other black hose. For sale only by

FELL OFF A TRAIN.

Willie Roads Receives a Broken Leg Near Green Camp.

Willie Roads, the 11-year-old epileptic, kleptomaniac and all-round pilferer who has for a long time caused his parents, their neighbors and the police a great deal of trouble, came near getting his everlasting Monday afternoon. The boy's latest offense was that of stealing chickens, and Marshal Redd was on his track Monday. The boy, however, with his usual acuteness saw that something was up and he decided to elude the marshal. For this purpose, it is supposed, he had decided to go to Richwood, where he always visits an aunt when it becomes uncomfortable about Marion. Accordingly the boy took Erie train 5 at the junction with the intention of stealing a ride to his destination. When the train had arrived just west of Green Camp, and while it is said to have been running at the rate of about forty miles an hour, the boy fell off, resulting in breaking one of his legs near the knee. It is supposed that he was taken with an epileptic fit, to which he is subject, causing him to fall off. Escape from death was remarkable.

The lad was taken to the home of Mr. Wynn, near Green Camp, where his injuries received attention. His mother went down to that place Monday evening to care for her son.

A RAG BABY

Precipitates the Rumor of a Deserted Infant Being Found in East Marion—Was Started for a Business Boom.

The story was started this morning, and soon rapidly spread, that an infant had been found near Motser's grocery store in East Marion, Monday night. Constable Jones and three newspaper fellows, accompanied by that East end boomer, E. E. Rush, and one or two real estate magnates, boarded the Kensington hack and started for the scene of the find.

The cause of the alarm was found to be that on Monday night a citizen of that part of town had run across a bundle of feminine wearing apparel, and through ignorance or excitement started the report that he had found a baby. The report soon got up town and was soon made the foundation of a huge joke and an increase of business for the East end hack. It is reported that the whole thing originated in a brain bewildered by tiddledy winks.

Wants a Divorce.

Louisa Hensel, through her attorneys, Johnston & Young, Monday filed a petition in the court of common pleas for a divorce from her husband, Charles Hensel. The petition recites grievances that call for sympathy. It states that plaintiff was married to Charles Hensel in February, 1881, in Marion county, that the union has been blessed with five children, the oldest now being 7 years of age. The husband is charged with being an habitual drunkard, and is guilty of extreme cruelty at divers times without provocation, and all the support he has furnished the family during the two years last past has been the flour from four bushels of wheat. Plaintiff prays for divorce and custody of her five children.

Death at DeCliff.

Mrs. Mahala F. Brady died at her home in DeCliff, Friday, March 20, 1891, at the age of 43 years, and was buried at Pleasant Hill the Sunday following, the services being conducted by Rev. Lytell. Deceased was married to Abraham C. Brady October 18, 1873. She had been a sufferer for eighteen months previous to her death with cancer of the throat and also with dropsy, making that portion of her life one round of excruciating pain, all of which she bore most patiently. Mrs. Brady was a member of the M. E. church at DeCliff.
